and asked was there no way by which the day- guarantee of the success of reading ment in the TO-DAY'S TELEGRAPH NEWS thought there was, and hoped that before the day of election both the readjusters and debt payers would be found fighting side by side for a common cause. And now, said he, drawing a parallel from the history of Great Britain, take the red rese of readjusterism and the white rose of the debt payers, and blend them to gether, so that Virginia in this contest may present an unbroken front to the enemies of free government; the debt question had no coance tion whatever with the Presidential election, and it is as unreasonable to discuss the question in this campaign as it would be to discuss agriculture or politics in an Episcopal convention, Mothedist conference. Presbyterian synod or Baptist association. He argued that when the readjusters lent their aid to elect a man who scoffs at State severeignty, they unconsciously assisted in destroying the cause of readjust ment in the State; that if Hancock, a State's right man, was elected, the cause of read-justment in Virginia would be considerably advanced; he despised the communistic decirines of the repudiators, but he believed in a read-justment of the debt of Virginia within the resources of the State without an increase of taxation, and he was convinced that the hest and surest way to secure this was to place Hanc ck in the presidential chair by an overwhelming ters-up at the effair, which is something that majority. We want a change of government because we want the management of the goverament changed; we want the constitutional government of our fathers restored; we want to see the people of the South recognized as the peers of the people of the North; we went to see the North and South clasp hands in friend ship, and to recomplish these grand results we want to see the readjusters and debreayers of old Virginia united; he wanted to see both brauches of the democratic party come together and stand by Hanccek on one platform. If the radicals were defeated this time they will never be seen again as a national party, but, said the speaker, you will see them making contortions here and there over the equatry, like a snake out in too. He believed that Hancock would be elicied without the vote of Virginia, but it would be a burning shame for the State which

A PERSPUTED WOMAN.-M. V. Donasi, from Richmond, arrived here yesterday with a warrant for the arcest of an Italian named Bin nadici Nodici, for threatening to kill Mrs. Mary Baceigelupe, of that city. Finding that the man for whom he was scarching was not here, he preceded immediately to Washington, and was not in that ci y long before he met his men on the sycauc. After a little persuasion, the detective specceded in inducing the man to cocompany him to this city, where he would have the authority to place him under airest. When on the way here, on the terry steamer. Nodini was informed that he was a prismer. As soon as they arrived in this city the man was turned over to the police authorities and locked up in the station house until 5 o'clock this afternoon, when the detresive started with him for Rich mend. The woman who Nedini threatened to kill is the same that was stabbed twenty one times by her hesband a short time age, and for which crime he is now serving out a term in the penicentiary. Nedini, notuated by jealous, has threatened the life of Mrs. Baceigolupo three timer, one time sending her a letter covered with blood, in which he stated that he was determined to kill her upless she acceeded to his proposale, and that, having made up his mind, he would certainly secomplish his object. The man, who is a rough looking tramp, has been sent to the chain gang by the Richmond authorities once for the offense for which he was arrested yesterday, and is now under bonds. with Mr. Doza'i as his surety, for his actions. Mr. Denati, who now intends to turn the man ever to the authorities, says that Mrs. Baccigolope has been greatly persecuted by him.
